Workers for Democratic Candidates Tell of Their Successful Fight.

A bewildering a ray of floral and feminine decoration greeted Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President-elect, when she stepped across the threshold of the Walderf-Astoria this afternoon as the junction guest of the Women's Democratic Club.

Eleven hundred of New York's repreentative women, among whom were the wives, daughters, sisters att mothers of men in practically every walk of life, were on hand to lend melr enthusiasm to the reception accorded Mrs. Wilson and her three daughters. hundred and fifty tables, wonderfully decorated and filled with silver come, were necessary for the accommo dation of the great assemblage of Mrs. Wilson and her daughters at rived in New York at II o'clock and were immediately excepted to the Waldorf by Mrs. James Crosby, President of the Women's Organization, under whose auspices the affalr was given. President-elect appeared in the Green Room in the west wing of the hotel to receive and say a gracious word to eac of her hostesses.

Miss Murgaret, Miss Eleanor and Miss Jessie Wilson appeared with their mother on the raised dals of the room, while the members of the club filed past end spoke a few words to the future mistress of the White House.

Promptly at 1 o'clock the luncheon was announced. The grand ball room had been decorated under the direction of a committee, headed by Mrs. William Jenkine and Mrs. Frances H. Abrahall, which had the luncheon in charge Over the long table, at which sat Mrs Wilson and her daughters, with the offleers of the club, was eathered an enormous American flag, from each fold of which blossomed small flags, en rosette, while a large blue Union Jack centred play were smaller displays of the same nature, while the balconies and tables jealous in order to keep her husband the gentleman's success is beautiful to massed with flags and flowers.
